MUSIC

Music now a day expresses feelings it always did, yet in the older days it expressed more independence, emotions, and communication. People, we found, rather the music they grew up with because of the compassion and how they relate to it. For our group it may be artist like Tupac and Bryan Adams. They say that newer music rots our brain, but maybe they just can't relate to our music.

Some people can't express their feelings into words but music help other understand. Music has been described as the “language of emotion” by some authors, talking about emotions music can be the answers to your problem. Bob Marley once said “one good thing about music when it hits you, you feel no pain.” or “music expresses that which cannot be said and is impossible to be silent.” music is the heart and soul of the world. You can't forget or lose the meaning that music gives to anyone.

So, in conclusion even though newer music might not be favorited by some, music in general is loved by anyone and everyone, no matter what genre or artist music sparks interest in people hearts. This concludes another music article by your typical music addict. But don't let the meaning blind you from reality. To people like us, music is the gateway to reality but to many others it's a trap door to another dimension.

STUDENT INTERVIEW.

Hello, I am Scarlett and I interviewed Katelyn MacNeish Payne, a Beyond The Hurt member. I asked her questions involving a little info about Be On The Hurt also involving the suicide prevention presentation we had on earlier in the year.

Scarlett: Hi Katelyn

Katelyn: Hi

Scarlett: So why did you want to join Beyond The Hurt?

Katelyn: Because I feel like I see people getting bullied and it has happened to me. It hurts and it needs to stop and I think we can all stop it.

Scarlett: I also think that's why most people wanted to be a part of Beyond The Hurt. How long did it take to prepare for the suicide prevention presentation?

Katelyn: A week, we spent maybe two period's and some recesses.

Scarlett: Oh, wow. How do you think people reacted to the presentation?

Katelyn: Well, I was talking I seen a few people laughing and a few people crying. Most people listened but some didn't.

Scarlett: Why do you think people were laughing?

Katelyn: I asked a few people some didn't care, some were barely listening and some were laughing at the videos.

Scarlett: How did it make you feel when you saw people crying?

Katelyn: Well, I think that meant it meant something to them and they were obviously listening.

Scarlett: Thank you for taking to me today.

Katelyn: No problem.

ONE FOR SORROW

By Shelby Arseneault

One For Sorrow is a scary book or much rather a ghost story. Its based back in September 1918. The novel is based around a girl names Annie Browne who moves to a new catholic school for girls.

Things for young Annie Browne was going good so far, but this one girl really caught Annie's eye. Her name is Rosie. Yet before Annie has a chance to go and say hello to Rosie a “plump” girl named Elsie Schneider comes over and instantly becomes Annie's so called “best friend”.

Soon enough Elsie is coming to Annie's house everyday after school and breaking all of her things. Luckily for Annie, not so long after that she becomes Rosie's best friend. But little did she know that she would start bullying her.

Elsie soon after dies from the Influenza breakout. Yet only for young Annie Browne, the moment they accidently step into her funeral, that’s when her life has took a turn. For the worse.

A WOLF'S PACK

By Zabryna Gauthier

The alpha wolf leads from the back of the pack,
The rest do not see them,
Yet they trust in their lead,
They can see the rest are safe,

The weakened and elder wolves are in the lead,
The pace they set for the rest to keep,
If they had been in the back,
They would be left behind,

Isn't it odd and somewhat familiar,
We find comfort and strengths as a whole,
And as a whole we guide each other,
Striving for no-one to be abandoned.
